CURRENCY THAT SOMETIMES REQUIRES AN AMMONIA BATH.

A Fair Young New York Cashier's Plan, Which Includes an Increase of Salary. The Experience of a Young Actor and His Brilliant Wife.

The fair metropolitan cashier has added a new factor to her growing valuation which will not prove so desirable a wife in the eyes of her employer as the honesty and efficiency which have won her almost a monopoly in the business. It is the result of the microbe craze, and is nothing less than washing all the money she handles and charging her employer overtime too.

The discoverer of this new way to enhance her usefulness and cost is Annie Nesmyth, the money taker of a big down town hotel. Miss Nesmyth serves at night mostly, and, while less money comes in than in the day, she is generally kept busy enough. The money is often very dirty and to the last degree repulsive to handle. Now, the cashier is a trained nurse "resting" from her arduous professional labors. After a sick spell from handling the soiled currency she concluded to resign.

She was persuaded not to by an increase of salary and permission to wash the money. So every night sees a soap plate of ammonia water at her elbow, into which each note, as it arrives, is dropped. It gets a quick bath and is then laid out on a piece of flannel to dry as tenderly as if it were her best piece of jewelry. The water has to be changed two or three times in a night.

The cashier recently had an offer of another similar job. Being asked what salary she wanted, she mentioned her usual figure, with the proviso that it must be so much more "if there's money to wash."

"Money to wash?" said the astonished would be employer. "Why, I haven't enough for my hides (I am a leather and tallow dealer), much less to wash."

"You see," she said calmly, "your business is dirty, and it's the money that will be. I won't wash another fellow's money in ammonia water—it's bad for the hands and head—without a consideration in my salary. Different if it were my money!" She says she's "passing the tip along," and soon all merchants in a business that calls for unusual fortitude in the olfactory and perceptive nerves will have to pay extra salaries if they wish to retain steady and efficient help.

A money washing episode which converted Charlie Bigelow, the actor, and his wife to a belief in banks is worth recording. By dint of great saving and denial the young couple got together $800 in the first year of their marriage. The money was kept in a chamois bag, which the wife strung around her waist under her corset, and as the fund was a great secret which both tried hard to forget, so that the well known borrowing propensities of their profession might not be excited, it was never touched or even looked at for months. But a run of bad luck finally drove the young folks to draw on the chamois bag, when to their intense distress it was found the money had become perfectly illegible. One by one the eight $100 bills were laid on the bed, all in the same condition of greasy, uniform black green no color. Husband and wife took turns at trying to restore the attractive greenness of the filthy lucre, but in vain. The young wife wept; the saving husband raved. Then together they went to the bank which had given them the bills. The bank refused to recognize the money, now could Manager Baker's endorsement make the cushion change his mind. The manager then took a $100 bill off their hands for friendship's sake and got a managerial friend to do likewise, trusting to their prominence to pass the note. That was doing a good bit for the young folks, who had submitted to being called stingy many a time to gather the fund together.

The actor then left his wife at home weeping over the remaining $800, while he went down on the Rialto to sell it to any speculator at 50 cents for the dollar. But the wife was "no slouch" at expedients. As soon as he was gone she dried her tears and declared to the girl that, as the money was no good anyway, they would just experiment with it. The girl made strong ammonia water, and the mistress took some washing soap and soaked and soaped and washed those six bills as industriously behind locked doors as if she were perpetrating the regular handkerchief and hose wash in a fourth story room of a hotel where laundry work in the rooms was forbidden. Patience was rewarded. Rid of their slimy coating, the half dozen bills at last showed faintly out in a wan sort of olive greenness, touched up with brown, as if under the rays of a dying sunset. They looked like autumn leaves after a big gale.

When her husband came home with the news that he had sold our bills at 25 cents on the dollar, and would throw the other two in for fear the speculator, an actor friend, would be bitten too badly, she said radiantly, "Guess not," and led him to the table where the six faded, wishy washy governmental promises lay still damp. He rushed out and got the others from his consolers and submitted them to the same restorative process. The bank took the whole eight as the young couple's first deposit. —New York Times.

DIAMONDS.

Good health is better than diamonds. Health is life. No pleasure can be taken without it. It is the most precious thing in the world, and many people care less about it. They neglect it, and it becomes a burden. It is the natural man's danger signal, and runs right onto the rocks of disease. All diseases have insignificant beginnings. Consumption is but the fruit of neglected catarrh. A slight cold develops into a chronic disease. A little indisposition grows into "liver complaint."

The best way to cure a disease is to prevent it. The next best way is to catch it before it develops to its worst stage.

The Carnival of Roses, to take place in San Jose, May 6th to 9th, inclusive, though a more recent candidate for favors of the fun-loving world, yet because of the limitless possibilities of the Garden City for anything that is made of roses is quite as full of promise.

THE COLORADO STATESMAN.

The Congressional Record of April 29th contains the full speech of Senator Teller of Colorado, who is entitled to the proud distinction of a statesman and a patriot, who is above the trickery of the politician and who tells the truth regardless of its effect on party. He declares that it was not intended that the Dingley bill, which passed the House after two hours' discussion, should become a law, and without exposing any of the secrets of caucus or party arrangements, there is not a single Republican, who now professes to be so zealous for the bill, that ever attempted to secure by his solicitation or argument or persuasion, a vote for the bill. The majority of the men who voted for the bill did not desire that it should become a law, and there is not an intelligent wool grower in the United States who does not know that he will be practically as well off without the bill as with it. The Senator from Ohio, Mr. Sherman, said that a tax on tea and coffee would be paid cheerfully by the people. He thinks the lack of revenue is the only trouble with the country, but how does he expect by increasing the duties on imports, and thus keeping them out of the country, to increase the revenue? He thinks the trouble is that not enough imports are coming in to keep up the revenue and says the way to get more revenue is to put on additional taxes and have less imports come in.

Mr. Teller says that the deficiencies on the 28th of April for the year were $24,247,517. On that day we had $273,522,338 in the treasury. There is not a nation on the face of the earth that holds $273,000,000 in its treasury for ordinary purposes. You draw out of circulation in this country $200,000,000 and put it where it is of no more value to commerce and trade than it would be in the depths of the ocean. And yet Senators wonder why it is that business does not revive and why prosperity does not return. We have had contraction at the rate of $100,000,000 a year, apparently in ignorance of a well-known and settled principle in political economy, that when you decrease the circulation of money you destroy prices, you discourage enterprise and retard all movements toward production. If there ever was a nation that seems to be governed by imbeciles or men without thought or reason, it is fair to say we are not in the hands of that class of people. The history of the world does not show such contraction as we have voluntarily and deliberately taken upon ourselves to create, for the simple purpose of maintaining the gold standard.

The Senator from Ohio knows that the $262,000,000 is a debt put upon this country to maintain the gold standard. What we want is a system of finance that shall bring confidence to the people who create and produce and encourage them in the belief that when they produce an article they want to sell they can sell it for at least as much as it cost. The financial question is at the bottom of this trouble, not a lack of resources, and the Senator from Ohio cannot fool the people of this country with the idea that all you need is to pass the McKinley bill again and then prosperity will come. You will never see the McKinley bill re-enacted, and if you did prosperity would not come with it.

Senator Teller said he would not enter into a general discussion of the silver question except to challenge the statement of Senator Sherman. As the business of the country increases, the currency of the country must increase in proportion. Here we are a nation of 70,000,000 people, the richest nation on the earth, with more natural advantages, more intelligence, more ambition, more enterprise than any other nation, and we are watching our currency shrink and shivel at the rate of $100,000,000 a year, while we witness the increase of population at a rate of 10,000,000 in a decade and no provision made by which the people can secure additional means of doing business unless the National banks in their generosity, come to our relief and issue more paper money. The National banks will not do it, and the bankers so declared in convention at Baltimore. The President of the United States wanted to retire greenbacks, the Senator from Ohio said that would not do, but he proposed that $100,000,000 of them should at all times be locked in the Treasury and kept there.

Mr. Teller said he had an idea that there is a method by which we can relieve the people of the country. In his anxiety that the people should have some opportunity of recovering their standing, restoring the industries, bringing back prices where they ought to be brought, it is possible that his judgment may not be good, but in his judgment there is no one who has proposed any system in this country that will save the people except that of the free coinage of silver.

Senator Teller says he looks with fear and trembling to see what the great political party with which he has acted for forty years will do. Will it take the side of the masses? Will it take the side that leads to prosperity? Will it take the side that will save to tens of thousands of struggling men the homes they are bound to lose if we continue on the gold standard, or will it yield to this seductive, false and lying idea of "sound money" and declare for the gold standard? If the Republican party becomes the party of the gold standard people, from the day it so declares, its disintegration will begin. He has no hesitation in saying on the floor of the Senate, as he has said before, that whenever the political organization to which he belongs ceases to represent his sentiments and his judgment on great and fundamental principles, he shall cease to act with it. As he speaks, so he shall vote, in the interest, as he believes, of the great masses of men in this country, and in the interest of the great masses of men throughout Christendom.

The galleries applauded the Senator from Colorado. Sherman replied and admitted that Mr. Teller is an honest man and that he (Sherman) respected a man who stands up for his opinions THE CALIFORNIA WAY.

The California Republican State Convention adopted the following resolution:

We favor the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the making of silver as well as gold a legal tender in payment of all debts, both public and private.

That was the first resolution adopted and it was in accord with the sentiment of a majority of the people of California. It did not suit the bosses, however. The spoilsman wanted to be in favor with McKinley, who now seems to be in the lead for the Presidential nomination, so they nullified the free coinage plank by declaring as follows:

That the Republicans of California, while recognizing the earnest worth and fitness of each of the distinguished statesmen of their party whose names have been mentioned for the Presidential nomination at St. Louis, and while pledging in advance the electoral vote of the Golden State to the Republican nominee, whoever he may be, hereby declare that the emphatic sentiment of California is in favor of that wise and able statesman, that pure and unsullied patriot, that true and loyal American, that peerless champion of protection, William McKinley of Ohio, and the delegates from this State are hereby directed and instructed to work and vote for the success of said William McKinley as long as there is a reasonable prospect of his nomination.

There is consistency for you. In favor of free coinage, but pledging support to anybody a gold standard party may nominate. George A. Knight, the author of the resolution, has pre-empted any Federal office in California he may choose, by securing its adoption. The action of the convention in declaring for free coinage and then nullifying the declaration by a subsequent resolution, reminds one of the colored minister, who announced to his congregation that he would preach the following Sunday at 10 o'clock in the morning, the Lord willing, and at 7 o'clock in the evening, whether or no.

Our anything-for-office neighbor, with an eye on the Federal soup pot, says "the Gazette is becoming more thoroughly convinced every day that Nevada by her independent action set the State back at least ten years." No political spoilsman ever countenanced independence in the voter; he has too much use for tools. It was only a few days ago that the Gazette said that Nevada is as prosperous as California.

Attacked by a Highwayman. HICKSVILLE, I. L., May 6.—Nelson Colyer of Woodbury, son of ex-Judge Robert C. Colyer, to-day reported to the authorities that while passing the convent at Syosset last evening he was attacked by a strange man, who shot at him with a revolver. The bullet passed through Mr. Colyer's hat and made a wound in his scalp, but not a serious one. Colyer had been out collecting money for his father, and had a considerable amount when the stranger accosted him. Colyer, when he realized he had been shot, whipped up his horse, and reaching home he sent for a physician. The latter dressed his wound, and then a search was made for the highwayman, but he could not be found.

Creamer Ordered to Leave. HAVANA, May 6.—James Creelman, correspondent of the New York World, and Frederick W. Lawrence, correspondent of the New York Journal, have been expelled from the island on the ground that they calumniated General Weyler, the government and army, and attributed insurgent crimes to the Spanish army. They have been ordered to leave Cuba by the first steamer sailing.

Rhodes Resigned. LONDON, May 8.—The report that Cecil Rhodes and Alfred Beit have resigned as directors of the British Chartered South Africa Company is confirmed.

The California Republican State Convention elected Spreckles, Sheldon, Grant and Knight delegates at large to the Republican Convention. C. F. Crocker and Irving M. Scott were nominated for Presidential electors at large, and John F. Lynch was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor. The Platform declares for free coinage at 16 to 1, but instructs for McKinley, so long as he is in the fight.

A motion to refer the Pfeffer resolution to investigate the bond issue of the Finance Committee, was defeated by a vote of 35 to 17. The resolution will be voted on to-day.

Ex-Governor Roberts of Texas, a goldbug, says the leaders of the Democratic party in that State headed by Culberson, is trying to take the party into the National Silver party.

HOW THE SEEDS ARE DISTRIBUTED

What a South Dakota Man Wanted. Last year, without authority of law, Mr. Sterling Morton, Mr. Cleveland's boss farmer, decided to abolish free seed distribution. Usually each Congressman's entire quota was delivered to him in sealed packages of 5 by the first of January each year and thus a member was enabled to send out under his personal supervision the seed at an early date. This year Congress had to act by resolution, and it was not until late in March that they directed the Secretary to comply with the law, but he has acted slowly. He advertised for bids and placed every delay possible in the way of a prompt compliance with the law. Last week the members were informed that their quota of seed would be ready by May 1st. The flower seeds in Minneapolis and the garden seed in Philadelphia. Each member was requested to address franked slips, 3230 in number and send them to the Secretary of Agriculture, who in turn would have them sent to Philadelphia and Minneapolis, where at the firm's pleasure they would be placed on the seed packets.

The Secretary of Agriculture, while reluctantly complying with the law, has crippled its usefulness by his unseemly delay. Under the present system of distribution, dissatisfaction must result, and if Nevada people receive all seeds of one kind, or do not get them until June, they must not blame their representatives who acted with promptness, but Mr. Cleveland's Secretary of Agriculture.

When Nevada's present Congressman came to Washington he inaugurated an innovation in his seed distribution, which, while it entailed endless labor, afforded good results, as can be seen from letters from his constituents. He did not believe the bankers, moneyed men and merchants had any particular use for seeds and instead of putting them in 15 or 20 sacks and sending them to 15 or 20 members of the Legislature, or to as many editors of papers, when first come would be first served, he inserted notices in the papers of the State, requesting those desiring seeds to communicate with him. The result was the receipt of six or seven hundred letters from farmers who needed and appreciated seeds. He divided his quota, both as to quantity and quality, which involved the handling, sorting and addressing of 16,500 packages among those making requests. The result was gratifying. One man wrote that he had lived 30 years in the State, but had never received any garden seed from Washington.

Another wrote: "I have been trying to get seed from Washington, but since the days of Uncle Jimmy Fair and Geo. Cassidy, I have never received any." Mr. Newlands has received umbruous letters testifying to the satisfactory manner of distribution. A number of Southern members, to whom Mr. Newlands explained his quota, have taken it up with equal success. This year the peculiar action of the Secretary of Agriculture has rendered a just and equitable distribution of seeds almost impossible.

Apropos of seed distribution the following funny letter was read in Congress a few days ago:

Rather a funny letter was read to the House yesterday by Representative Pickler of South Dakota, while the agricultural bill was under consideration.

In the matter of the estate of Hoffman, E. S. Osburn, administrator, one of the interested parties was too sick to appear in court and the case was continued.

Jury Bribers and Corruptionists to be Prosecuted

The tip has gone out that the jury bribers are the next to receive attention from the Department of Justice. Dispatches were flying thick and fast between Carson and Washington all day and the Government has decided to follow up the successful termination of the suits by a deal with the jury bribers. Sufficient evidence has been received to nail the men who handled the corruption money for Jones and Heney and also some of the men who sold themselves. The Government will not rest from its labors until every rascal that can be reached is cooling his heels behind the bars, attired in the regulation garb of the prison. Before this deal is over, men not heretofore suspected will be in the clutches of the Palace.

The Silver State says the ground was covered with snow at Winnemucca yesterday morning. Such a succession of storms was never before known here at this time of the year, and it is a general speculation as to when the weather is going to clear up.

The Comstockers are already arranging the preliminaries for a grand Fourth of July celebration. They are going at it with a vim and it is proposed to put aside all signs of hard times for that day at least, and make the old town seem as it was in the palmy days.

The general idea now is that they will round up more of the evil doers until they get a carload and then ship them East—Carson Appeal.

District Court

The trial of the V. & T. tax suit, now in progress in the District Court, was adjourned over yesterday, owing to the delay regarding some material evidence that could not be furnished until today, also on account of the severe indisposition of General Torreyson, one of the attorneys. It is expected that the case will go on at 9 o'clock this morning.

A jury in the case of Wills vs. the Bank of Nevada was impaneled, and eleven jurors were selected. It was agreed by counsel to try the case with this number and the trial was set for Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Did Not Like the Letters.

Albert P. Andrews, a traveling man, stopped at a hotel at Roseville Junction the other day. The genial proprietor, Patrick O'Brien, happened to be out when Andrews arrived, but Mrs. O'Brien told the drummer to leave his luggage and make himself at home. After registering he took a walk about town and when he returned he found that O'Brien had kicked his grips into the street and was met by a request from the landlord to vacate and told that none of his kind could stop in the house. Andrews looked at his valises and tumbled. They were simply marked with his initials.

Another Sensation.

Some of our friends say German carp is a good crop. We will put in a few acres of carp for a starter if we can get the seed. Some of our kind friends recommend ostriches, but they grow so few in a hill we will not venture to try them.

There is a small lake near our farm, and my wife is anxious to raise some gondolas. They are an Italian bird, I believe. The climate here is severe, but she thinks she could raise them by keeping them near a hard coal burner in the winter season. If Mr. Morton could be prevailed upon to send us a pair of young ones we would esteem it a great favor. We could use some canary-back duck seed to good advantage.

We want to try some hard coal seed this year as we have paid $10 a ton for coal about as long as we care to. One of my young sons has a desire to raise a pair of elephants to break our land with. Do you think Mr. Morton would send "pear head," "linx" or "star"? The climate is too dry for fine cut. If the department has anything new in jack rabbits I would like a few vines that would bear the second year.
